Excerpt: . . . eat cormorants all to a man, before long. But, continues Ofellus, though I would have you frugal, I would not have you mean--One vicious extreme it is idle to shun, If into its opposite straightway you run; illustrating his proposition by one of those graphic sketches which give a distinctive life to Horaces Satires. There is Avidienus, to whom, like a burr, Sticks the name he was righte-ously dubbed by, of Cur, Eats beechmast and olives live years old, at least, And even when hes robed all in white for a feast On his marriage or birth day, or some other very High festival day, when one likes to be merry, What wine from the chill of his cellar einerges--Tis a drop at the best--has the flavour of verjuice; Vhile from a huge cruet his own sparing hand On his coleworts drops oil...
