Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Report, Relative to the Proceedings for the Relief of the Sick Poor, During the Late Epidemic; And on the Subject, Generally, of the Public Health, 1839: To Which Is Annexed the Report of the Commissioners of the Temporary Hospital In every case, moreover, in which relief was granted, it was strictly confined either to the procurement of nurses, and medical attendance, or to small donations of money for the purchase of articles indispensably necessary to the patient. In every case, too, in which nurses and other attendants were employed, they were engaged upon the cheapest terms upon which their services could be obtained, it having been a ruling principle with me to render the expenditure as little onerous as possible, consistently with the effectual attainment of the great object of the charity. The whole number of individuals, to whom relief was administered in this way, was seventeen, and the whole amount expended, one hundred and ninety-seven dollars, twenty-five cents. But whilst relief was extended in this manner to afflicted individuals or families, in different and generally distant parts of the city, I could not but feel that this mode of operation was highly unsatisfactory, if not wholly ineffectual, not only from the fact that cases where seldom brought to my notice till they were past recovery, but also from the difficulty of procuring nurses and other attendants in sufficient time, and particularly from my inability to ascertain whether the engagements of the persons employed were faithfully performed, or whether the pecuniary donations were strictly applied to those for whose benefit they were intended. Under those circumstances, it occurred to me that the laudable and...
