Excerpt: .by the most cogent reasons that suggest themselves, the final conclusions at which the Judge has conscientiously arrived. That object is defeated by the Judge elaborately recording the fluctuations of his mind from day to day, in reference to the witnesses, the evidence, and the arguments. It is a substantial objection to such judgment, that it does cot dispose of the question as it was presented by the parties, e. g., where it finds a particular signature to be a forgery, which both sides admit to be genuine. A.PPEAL from a judgment of the High Court of Madras Hjftt Kpf (March 13,1873), reversing a decree of the Civil Judge of Berhampore (December 23, 1871). The talook of Chinnakimidy, otherwise called Pratapagheri, is an ancient hereditary zemindary, which descended from lather to son for many generations before the British Government took possession of the territory subject...
