Excerpt: . . . 11 firefighters I have spoken to agree with me, and several of the noes who were there that night tell me that fire, in particular, was the most non-routine fire that had ever been to. I want to finish by saying that I hope you can change this think-ing in the Department of Justice. If not for me, for all of the thousands of firefighters and their families out there who continue to respond at a moments notice to dangerous situations. I am sure that most of them think, like Mike and I did, that if tragedy ever came to them their family would be taken care of. If they are not, what kind of message does that send I know that its already hard enough to get people to volunteer. Mike used to talk about how hard it is to recruit and keep people who are willing to devote the time and accept the danger. If the government considers this kind of service to be routine and denies benefits in circumstances like this, I really wonder how we will convince people to keep doing it. This is not something I would ever do in my life, to come down here and speak to you, but I feel it is that important that I have done so. Thank you. The prepared statement of Ms. Falkouski appears as a submis-sion for the record. Chairman L. Thank you. Im going to...
