This also brings up the subject of bacteriology as it applies to the home. Considerable attention is given to dietaries. I cannot close this brief outline without saying that both these courses have much to do with the home, its arrangement, proper decoration, care, and furnishings. Commercial and Industrial Education Conducted by the Young Men s Christian Association of Chicago. The Young Men s Christian Association, through its various features, --social, physical, religious, and educational, --serves as a supplement to the home, the church, and the school. It does not attempt or desire to supplant or compete with these fundamental institutions, but rather to supply men and boys with those things which they fail to get elsewhere. The policy of the Association as a supplemental agency is especially emphasized in its educational work. Regular school courses are not followed, but the special needs of the non-school class are sought out, and instruction adapted to the needs and conditions of such men is offered. In other words, the Association is supplying the education required to fill the gap between our present system of school training and the necessary preparation to enter commercial and industrial occupations. In many lines the Association has been a pioneer and leader in the field of supplemental education. For fifteen years the Association has conducted one of the largest evening schools in the country exclusively for employed men and boys. At present there is a yearly enrollment of...
